Bingo with Notes is a bingo based game. Music notes are drawn instead of numbers. It is important to identify the position of the notes. Fortunately the notes are always on the musical staff composed of five lines. The staff is their house.

A key is used to enter into a house, the G key (treble clef) for example. Some notes are comfortably placed in a little space between two lines whereas others are cut into two by the line, poor notes! One note perches on top of the staff. Another hangs underneath as a cherry. C is a little further below at the bottom and can be recognized due to its hat.

To play bingo with notes you don't have to know the names of the notes right away. You may take your time to learn them while playing. The more names you know the easier it is to win.

All the materials required for the game are ready to be cut and plasticized if necessary.
